Open Door Teacher

Name: Andrew Cotterell
Title: Training Manager
Area: Curtin Leadership Centre
Email: Andrew.t.cotterell@curtin.edu.au

Andrew has been working at the Curtin Leadership Centre since it was established at the beginning of 2013. Since then he has developed and delivered a large range of leadership training for students both in curricular and co-curricular programs. A focus of his training is to attempt to increase participants' awareness of the world around them whilst keeping the session fun and interactive.

Andrew has a Master’s of Science Communication where his research focussed on how interactive conference style events can increase our engage with large social issues.

Specialty areas of teaching
Large class interactive, International student engagement, collaborative learning in a tiered space.

Description of teaching to showcase to others
Want to get away from ‘sage on a stage’ style lectures in tiered spaces? Andrew runs voluntary, co-curricular leadership sessions that average over 70 students a session. Pick up some ideas for how to use space differently and ways to engage students in interactive activities that get everyone talking.
